

The Perfect Spanish Beggar.
There is a calm dignity about the Spaniard of every class which will strike a stranger. Even the beggars, of whom, goodness knows, there are plenty, seem to stand on a higher platform than their confreres in other lands. In our country the statutory address is, "Could you spare me a copper?" but a Spanish beggar thus addressed us at a railway station, and we give his address as typical of his class, "O senorito, da me un almonita, y rogare por su fells viaje!" which may be translated into English thus: "Oh, little gentleman, give me an almonita, and I will pray for you a happy journey."—Chambers' Journal.

A Singular Epitaph.
At Annapolis, N. S., and in the military cemetery attached to old Fort Anne is a tombstone with the following odd inscription:

Here lyeth the Body of Margaret Wilett,
Born the 24th day of April, 1712, and Dyed
the 23rd of February, 1772.
The singular part of the epitaph is that the child, according to the engraving on the headstone, died nearly a year before its birth.

Interpreted.
"Father," asked the youth, "what is your understanding of the saying, 'The race is not always to the swift?'"

"Practically, my son," replied the wise father, "it means that in the race of life the fast man don't usually come out ahead."—Catholic Standard and Times.

The Decline of Chivalry.
Wife (drearily)—Ah, mo! The days of chivalry are past. Husband—What's the matter now? Wife—Sir Walter Raleigh laid his cloak on the ground for Queen Elizabeth to walk over, but you get mad simply because poor, dear mother at down on your hat.

The benefits which come to New Jersey people through the fact that the Prudential Insurance Company is a New Jersey Institution are shown by the statement that nearly eighteen million dollars have been paid by the Prudential to residents of this State, and that more than 900,000 policies are now held in the Prudential by New Jersey people.
The amount loaned on bond and mortgage in New Jersey is over $5,000,000—an investment which must have its effects in the development of productive industry. Again, the Prudential finds a livelihood for between 3,000 and 4,000 New Jersey people who have dependents representing perhaps two or three times that number. As a taxpayer the Prudential has paid to New Jersey the sum of $1,800,000, which somebody would have had to pay if the Prudential had not been in this State. This leaves out of account the reduction of taxation that has taken place through the decrease of public burdens since the introduction of industrial life insurance.
The Prudential carries over $155,000,000 of paid for life insurance on the lives of New Jersey people, which is the best evidence of the confidence held by the citizens of the State in that great institution.

Help For His Family.
When Robert Burns died the following obituary appeared in the Edinburgh Advertiser of July 26, 1796: "On the 21st inst. died at Dumfries, after a lingering illness, the celebrated Robert Burns. His poetical compositions, distinguished equally by the force of native humor, by the warmth and the tenderness of passion and by the glowing touches of a descriptive pencil, will remain a lasting monument of the vigor and versatility of a mind guided only by the lights of nature and by the inspiration of genius."
The public, to whose amusement he has so largely contributed, will learn with regret that his extraordinary endowments were accompanied with frailties which rendered them useless to himself and his family. The last months of his short life were spent in sickness and indigence, and his widow, with five infant children and in the hourly expectation of a sixth, is now left without any resource but what she may hope from the regard due to the memory of her husband.
The public are respectfully informed that contributions for the wife and family of the late Robert Burns, who are left in circumstances of extreme distress, will be received at the houses of Sir William Forbes & Co., of Messrs. Mansfield, Ramsay & Co., and at the shops of the Edinburgh booksellers. It is proposed to publish some time hence a posthumous volume of the poetical remains of Robert Burns for the benefit of the author's family. His friends and acquaintances are requested to transmit such poems and letters as may happen to be in their possession to Alexander Cunningham, writer, George street, Edinburgh, or to John Syme, Esq., Ryedale, Dumfries. It is hoped that in the meantime none of his original productions will be communicated to the public through the channel of newspapers or magazines so as to injure the sale of the intended publication."

Erie Electrification.
Vice-President J. M. Graham of the Erie Railroad says that he expects a report from his engineers on the electrification of the Rochester (N. Y.) division by May 1st. A line is also being run to connect the Mt. Morris branch with the Buffalo division. As soon as the survey is completed, said Mr. Graham, "and the estimates made, we expect to push the work to completion as rapidly as possible."
